Tequila

Tequila, what the Gods drink when they want to have fun! A little more expensive than you might expect Tequila to be, especially when comparing their age's to the Rums above. It's because the 'Blue Agave' plant that it's produced from takes up to 12 years to grow to harvesting maturity, whereas Rums 'sugar cane' takes only 12 months.

Cognac

Cognac is a Brandy 'eaux-de-vie' that comes from the 'Cognac region', located north of Bordeaux, France. The chalky soil, the climate, and the proximity to the ocean present a unique advantage for vineyards in this area, which produce a thin acidic wine unattractive on its own, but ideal for distillation into brandy.
